Rules of Order.

RULE I.

The President shall take the chair precisely at the hour specified in the call; and, if a quorum be present, proceed with the business of the meeting. He shall preserve order and decorum; may speak to points of order in preference to other members—rising from his seat for that purpose—and shall decide questions of order, subject to an appeal to the Company by any two members, on which appeal no member shall speak more than once, unless by leave of the Company. The President must rise to put a question, but may state it sitting. He may appoint Committees of three or more, by consent of the Company. When any member is about to speak or deliver any matter to the Company, he shall rise from his seat and respectfully address himself to the President and shall confine himself to the question under debate and avoid personality.

RULE II.

If a member be called to order, he shall immediately sit down, unless permitted to explain; and the Company shall, if appealed to, decide on the case without debate. If there be no appeal, the decision of the Chair shall be submitted to. If the decision be in favor of the member called to order, he shall be at liberty to proceed; if otherwise, he shall not, in case any member object, without leave of the Company.

RULE III.

When two or more members happen to rise at once, the President shall name the member who is to speak first.

RULE IV.

No member shall speak more than once on the same question, without leave of the Company, unless he be the mover, proposer or introducer of the matter pending, in which case he shall be permitted to speak in reply, but not until every member choosing to speak shall have done so.

RULE V.

If a question pending be lost by adjournment of the Company and revived at the next meeting, no member who shall have spoken on it at the first meeting shall be permitted again to speak, without leave of the Company.

RULE VI.

While the President is putting any question, or a member is speaking, none shall walk out of or across the room, nor entertain private discourse, nor pass between the speaker and the Chair.

RULE VII.

No member shall vote on any question in the issue of which he is immediately and particularly interested.

RULE VIII.

Every member, when a question is put, shall give his vote, unless the Company, for special reasons, excuse him, which question shall be decided without debate. A motion to excuse can only be made before the house divides, or before the call of the ayes and nays is commenced.

RULE IX.

When a motion is made and seconded, it shall be stated by the Chair; or, being in writing, it shall be handed to the Chair, and read aloud by the Secretary before debate.

RULE X.

Every motion shall be reduced to writing, if the Chair or any member desire it. A motion may be withdrawn, by consent of the Company, before a decision or amendment.

RULE XI.

When a question is under debate, no motion shall be received but to adjourn, to lie on the table, for the previous question, to postpone to a certain day, to commit or amend, or to postpone indefinitely—which several motions shall have precedence in the order in which they are arranged, and no motion to postpone to a certain day, to commit, or postpone indefinitely, being decided, shall again be allowed at the same meeting or at the same stage of the question.

RULE XII.

A motion to adjourn and a motion to fix the day to which the Company shall adjourn shall be always in order. These motions, and the motions to lie on the table and the previous question, shall be decided without debate. All incidental questions of order, arising after a motion is made for the previous question, and pending such motion, shall be decided, whether on appeal or otherwise, without debate.

RULE XIII.

A question may be divided if it comprehends propositions in substance so distinct that, one being taken away, a substantive proposition shall remain for the decision of the Company. A motion to strike out and insert shall be deemed indivisible; but a motion to strike out being lost, shall preclude neither amendment nor a motion to strike out and insert.

RULE XIV.

No motion or proposition on a subject different from that under consideration shall be admitted under color of amendment.

RULE XV.

A motion to reconsider must be made at the same or the next meeting, and by a member who voted in the majority; and such motion shall take precedence of all other questions, except a motion to adjourn.

RULE XVI.

When the reading of a paper is called for, and the same is objected to by any member, it shall be determined by a vote of the Company.

RULE XVII.

Upon calls of the house, or in taking the ayes and nays on any question, the names of the members shall be called in the order in which they are placed upon the roll.

RULE XVIII.

Any member may excuse himself from serving on any Committee at the time of his appointment, if he is then a member of two other Committees.

RULE XIX.

In filling up blanks, the largest sum and the longest time shall be first put.

RULE XX.

The ayes and nays shall be ordered at the request of one-fifth of the members present entitled to vote.

RULE XXI.

When it has been voted to lay a motion on the table, it can only be taken up at the same meeting by the consent of two-thirds of the members present.

RULE XXII.

All questions of order not herein stated shall be decided in accordance with the Rules and Orders of the House of Representatives of the United States, as contained in Jefferson's Manual.

RULE XXIII.

Any section of the foregoing Rules and Orders may be suspended by a vote of two-thirds of the members present, but such suspension is not to go beyond the meeting.
